

ACADEMIC ADVISOR

Judith Grant-Long, Ph.D.
Associate Professor, Sport Management
University of Michigan

Research Interests

- The intersection of sports, tourism, city planning and economic development
- Finance and delivery of sports and touristic infrastructures via public-private partnerships
- Planning for sports tourism mega-projects, with a current focus the Olympic Games
- Assessing and improving host city experiences and outcomes

Recent Publications

1. Long, Judith G. Forthcoming 2017. Olympic Urbanism: Rome to Rio. New York and London: Routledge.
2. Long, Judith G. (2015) The Olympic Games and Urban Development Impacts. in The Mega-Event City and Urban Development. London: Routledge.
3. Long, Judith G. (2013) Public-Private Partnerships for Major League Sports Facilities. New York and London: Routledge.
4. Long, Judith G. (2013) Rethinking Olympic Infrastructure. in City Transformations 2013: Rio de Janeiro. London School of Economics
5. Long, Judith G. (2013). The Olympic Games and Urban Development Impacts. BRICS and Mega-Sporting Events. Rio de Janeiro, Brazil: BRICs Policy Center at PUC-Rio

Background

- Honors include grants and awards from the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study (as a Radcliffe Fellow, 2011-12) and the Gerald M. McCue Medal awarded by the Harvard Graduate School of Design
- Held faculty positions at Harvard University, Rutgers University, and University of Michigan
- Former Director of Master of Urban Planning Degree Program, Harvard University
- Former Senior Planner in the Planning Department, Brampton, Ontario (1990-96)
- PhD in Urban Planning, Harvard University 2002
- Master's in design studies with distinction, Real Estate Development, Harvard University 1995
- Bachelor of Applied Arts with honors, Urban & Regional Planning Ryerson University 1989
- Bachelor of Arts, Economics, Huron University College, Western University 1986

Contact Information

Tel: +1-734-647-4762

Email: jglong@umich.edu

LinkedIn: Judith Grant-Long