

ACADEMIC ADVISOR
James McKellar, FRAIC, FRICS
Associate Dean, External Relations
Schulich School of Business, York University

Research Interests

- Infrastructure and the business models driving large-scale public infrastructure projects
- Sustainable cities
- Challenges of urbanization across the globe
- Real estate

Recent Publications

1. Hussain, S., & McKellar, J. (Fall, 2019). The Business of Infrastructure. Routledge. New York, New York.
2. Kaganova, O., & McKellar, J. (2006). Managing government property assets: International Experiences. Urban Institute Press. Washington, D.C.

Background

- Founding Academic Advisor to the National Executive Forum on Public Property
- Previous Director of the Brookfield Centre in Real Estate and Infrastructure
- Master of Architecture (M.Arch), . Master of City Planning (MCP), University of Pennsylvania
- Bachelor of Architecture (B.Arch), University of Toronto
- Founding Director, Center for Real Estate Development, MIT
- Member of the American Real Estate Society, the American Real Estate and Urban Economics Association, the Urban Land Institute
- Honorary Life Member of the Society of Office and Industrial Realtors
- Fellow of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada and the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors
- Has held faculty appointments at the University of Pennsylvania and University of Calgary and was Adjunct Professor at Johns Hopkins University in Washington, D.C.

Contact Information

Tel: (416) 736-2100, ext. 20104

Email: jmckellar@schulich.yorku.ca

Web: <http://schulich.yorku.ca/faculty/james-mckellar/>